Address on Agriculture.

The Broadway Tabernacle was filled last evening with the Members and friends of the American Institute, assembled to listen to the Annual Address. The exercises were opened by the performance of the anthem, 'Who is the King of glory " by the New-York Sacred Music Societyor which Gen. JAMES TALLMADGE. President of the Institute, in a brief address, explained the general objects of the American Institute, and the purpose of its Fairs. City Entelligence. Reported for The Tribune.

I wish I could induce our farmers (said Mr. C.) to think more highly of their own profession. I have regretted to see our young men taught to regard the duties of the farm as irkson drudgery. I have never witnessed or realized gotter enjoyment than in a farm-house, and even a log cabin. How have I been delighted through an evening spent in chemical experiments for useful purposes by a farmer's fireside!

I once knew a farmer who carried two Berkshire hogs to his own section of country. His neighbors all bred hogs—of the real land-pike and alligator breed—all snout but the tail. They crowded round to see the new arrival, and unanimeusly agreed that one hundred and twenty-five dollars for two pigs was a most ridiculous price. Yet that farmer has realized a large profit on his purchase, and now that section is well stocked with Berkshires, and Mr. C. dilated on the great benefits realized from Mr. C. dilated on th
